

Understanding Ananias and Saphira's Big Lie

A few weeks ago I taught a class of 5-11 year olds about a very important lesson learned by the early church. The lesson was from Acts 4:32-5:11 and it was about lying.

The church in Jerusalem shared possessions among themselves so that no one was in need. Ananias and Saphira saw how much a man named Joseph was admired for selling property and giving all proceeds to the church. Wanting everyone to think they were equally generous this couple conspired together to keep back part of the proceeds from a sale and yet lie and publicly say that they were giving it all. They were caught in their lie and the punishment was swift and harsh. There was no doubt in anyone's mind that lying was wrong and that this would not be the way the church would conduct itself

Do not lie to one another. Colossians 3:9 (ESV)

To help the children understand these transactions I brought some money and houses from an old Monopoly game to class. This was great with a mixed-age group because one of the older children quickly volunteered to distribute all of the money equally to everyone and the youngest child asked the child next to her for help.
