

How Can I Be a Better Teacher?

We all want to teach well. We want the children to have fun, love one another, and learn to love God. The unfortunate news is no one is a perfect teacher- but everyone can be a better teacher! In fact, our mistakes as teachers can be turned into opportunities for God's power and goodness to work through us and remind us that God is always working in the lives of the children we're teaching, whether we are perfect teachers or not. Remember that showing children love is one of the greatest ways for us to teach them about God's love, and that is the most important lesson for us all!

Here are some ways to improve as a teacher:

1. Pray

You will not be able to improve without God's wisdom and help.

2. Read the Bible

It doesn't matter how good your teaching methods are if you are not accurately teaching the Word of God.

3. Talk to Children

Find out what the children like to do in school. Ask them how they like to learn.

Tips on Talking to Children.

4. Observe Other Teachers

You will learn new things and find out which methods you would like to use and which methods would not. Even the most experienced teacher can be energised by observing someone else teach.

5. Read Books and Articles About Teaching

You can find books at the library, good Christian bookstores, websites or Pinterest. Ask other teachers what books or resources they recommend.

Learn to discern. Not every book in the library or every article on the internet is a good resource. If you are not sure about a resource's quality or information you found, ask someone who is a mature Christian to help you understand.

6. Try Something New

If you do something the same way every time you will become even more bored than the children. Teaching Ideas Here.

7. Practice

You will never improve if you don't give it a try.

8. Spend Extra Time in Preparation

If you are always preparing at the last minute, then you will not improve.

Step-By-Step Instructions here.

9. Write a Lesson Plan

Taking the time to write out your lesson plan often clarifies your thoughts and gives your time with the children more focus. Looking back at some of your previous lesson plans can be a helpful tool, as doing this often sparks new ideas for other lessons. Try these Lesson Plan Templates.

10. Reflect On Your Teaching

As a teacher you will probably learn more than the children do! After your lesson, take the time to think about what happened and how the lesson went. If I teach on Sunday morning, I often spend a little time Sunday evening reflecting. Ask yourself, 'What went well? What would I do differently next time?' You can use this Teacher Reflection Template to help you reflect, or another way to do this is to ask someone to watch you teach and give you feedback.

I hope you will always try to improve as a teacher. God bless you as you teach!

©Mission Bible Class 2011-2025. Before copying or reproducing any portion of this website, please carefully read the "Copyrights and Permissions Page." <https://missionbibleclass.org/about/copyrights-and-permissions/> (Not to be sold or profited from in any way.) www.missionbibleclass.org

