

Joseph in Egypt

Scripture Reference: Genesis chapters 39-41

Suggested Emphasis or Theme: We should have integrity. Integrity is doing right even when no one else can see what you're doing. Integrity is doing what is right because it is right.

Story Overview:

In Egypt, Joseph became a slave to an official named Potipher and quickly rose to be head servant of the household. After Potipher's wife lied about him Joseph lands in prison where he once again rises to be the warden's trusted assistant. Joseph interprets dreams of prisoners which eventually leads him to interpreting the dreams of Pharaoh. To prepare for an uncoming famine Pharaoh placed Joseph in charge of all of Egypt. At every step, even away from his family, Joseph gave glory to God and acted with integrity.

Background Study:

(Genesis 39:1-20) In Egypt, Joseph was sold as a slave to Potiphar, captain of Pharaoh's guard. God blessed Joseph in the work he did. After a time, Potiphar trusted Joseph so much that he placed him in charge of everything he had.

Joseph was well built and handsome. Potiphar's wife tried to tempt him, but he refused to sin. Who would have known if Joseph would have disobeyed God? His family was not around and he might never see them again. The fact that Joseph chose to do the right thing even when no one else was around to see him shows that he had personal integrity. He did the right thing because he truly was a righteous person. Eventually Potiphar's wife tricked him and accused him. Potiphar was angry over this (39:19), but he put Joseph in prison rather than executing him. Execution would have been the normal punishment for the sin he was falsely accused of committing.

(Genesis 39:20-40:23) Sold into slavery by his brothers and thrown into prison for a crime he didn't commit, Joseph could have given up on God, but even in prison he remained faithful. God blessed Joseph in prison; soon the warden put him in charge of everything done there. Joseph was about seventeen years old when he was sold into slavery, and apparently was put in prison soon after that. He was thirty years old when he was released from prison. So he had been in prison close to thirteen years.

(Genesis 41:1-40) It is not unusual that the cup bearer, the baker, and Pharaoh all seemed obsessed with their dreams. Dreams were given great importance in those days. Pharaoh's advisers even had manuals to help them interpret dreams. Note that Joseph didn't use a manual—he depended on God to provide the interpretation.

(Genesis 41:41-57) It was bold of Joseph to suggest a plan for dealing with the famine, but God must have been at work because Pharaoh was impressed. Pharaoh showers Joseph with gifts and honour including Pharaoh's signet ring, robes and fine linen, a gold chain necklace, a chariot to ride, a new name and a wife.

Joseph's time in Egypt was filled with events that were extremely bad and extremely good. In whatever situation Joseph found himself, he gave glory to God, worked hard and kept his personal integrity.

Way to Introduce the Story:

“Who had a dream last night? What did you dream about?” (Take time to share dreams that you and the students have had.) “In today’s story we are going to learn about dreams that have meaning.”

The Story:

Joseph had been sold by his own brothers as a slave and was taken to Egypt. He was sold to a man named Potiphar who was one of the Pharaoh’s officials. A slave has to do everything his master tells him to do but he never gets paid. Joseph worked hard in Potiphar’s house.

But even though Potiphar was his master in Egypt Joseph knew that God was his true master. He was always honest and tried to do things the way God would want him to.

Soon Potiphar trusted Joseph so much that he put him in charge of his entire household. Joseph was even in charge of other slaves and told them what to do. He made sure that the other slaves took good care of Potiphar’s wife.

But Potiphar’s wife was not a good woman. She wanted Joseph to be her boyfriend but Joseph knew that was wrong. She was already married to Potipher and it would be wrong to be her boyfriend. One day, when no one else was in the house Potipher's wife grabbed Joseph's cloak and said, "Come to bed with me. No one will know."

But Joseph had integrity. He wanted to do the right thing even if no one else could see him. He knew that God could see him. Joseph ran away from Potipher's wife so fast that he left his cloak.

Potipher's wife was very angry with Joseph. She told lies to Potipher. Then she held up Joseph's cloak and said, "See, I have proof that he tried to attack me. He left his cloak in my bedroom." When Potipher heard this he had Joseph sent to prison. It was a sad day for Joseph.

Even though Joseph was very sad to go to prison he still tried to act the way God would want him to act. Soon the warden in the prison learned to trust Joseph too. He put Joseph in charge of all the other prisoners.

Two men that were at the prison had been sent there by Pharaoh. Pharaoh was ruler of all Egypt. One man had been a cup-bearer in the palace and the other had been a baker. Each of these men had had dreams and were very upset by them.

"Tell me your dreams," Joseph said. "God will help me tell you what the dreams mean."

The cupbearer had dreamed about a grapevine with three branches. In the dream the cupbearer squeezed grape juice into a cup for Pharaoh. Joseph was happy to tell him that this meant that in three days the Pharaoh would let him out of prison and ask him to come back to work.

"When that happens", Joseph requested, "please remember to tell Pharaoh about me."

The baker dreamed about three baskets on his head. The top one was full of the bread and cakes that he had baked for Pharaoh. As he was carrying the baskets birds came and ate all of the breads and cakes. Joseph was sorry to tell him this meant that in three days the Pharaoh would have him put to death by hanging. After he died the birds would eat his body. The baker was very worried.

Three days later the Pharaoh had a big party for important guests. During the party he called the cupbearer and the baker forward in front of all of his guests. He announced that the cupbearer would have his job back. He would be in charge of bringing wine to the Pharaoh. This was just as Joseph had said.

And sadly, the meaning of the baker's dream also came true just as Joseph had said. Pharaoh announced that he was to be put to death by hanging.

Two years passed and the cupbearer forgot about Joseph. One night the Pharaoh had a dream. He really wanted someone to tell him what it meant. He called together all of his advisors and told them his dream. Even though they were magicians and the wisest men in Egypt they did not know what the dream meant.

And that is when the cupbearer finally remembered Joseph. He told Pharaoh how Joseph had correctly interpreted his dream and that of the baker.

So Joseph was taken out of the prison and brought to Pharaoh. When Pharaoh asked Joseph to interpret the dream Joseph told him, "I cannot interpret your dream but GOD can interpret it for you."

So Pharaoh explained what he had dreamed about. "I dreamed of seven fat cows eating among the reeds. While they were eating, seven scrawny and ugly cows came up and ate the fat cows. Even after they had eaten the fat cows the last cows were still scrawny and ugly.

Then, I dreamed of seven full and good heads of grain that sprouted. Seven thin and scorched heads of grain then sprouted and swallowed all of the fat heads of grain.”

“I have told these dreams to all my magicians but none of them could tell me what they mean,” the Pharaoh told Joseph.

Joseph explained, “It is God who is giving you these dreams to tell you what he is about to do. Both dreams mean the same thing. The seven fat cows and seven fat heads of grain represent seven years of abundance when crops grow well and there is extra food for everyone. The seven scrawny cows and seven scorched heads of grain represent seven years of famine when grain will not grow and there will not be enough food.”

Joseph continued, “During the seven years of abundance Pharaoh should put someone in charge so he can save and store all of the extra food. Then, when the seven years of famine come, the people in Egypt will have enough food and not go hungry.”

Pharaoh knew immediately that this was the true meaning of his dream.

He put Joseph in charge of storing grain for all of Egypt. He gave Joseph his own ring and a gold necklace. He also gave Joseph a chariot to ride on and he told everyone in Egypt to follow Joseph’s instructions. Joseph was only second to the Pharaoh in all of Egypt. Pharaoh also chose a wife for Joseph to show him honour.

So, Joseph had come to Egypt as a slave and now he was a wealthy leader of Egypt, second only to Pharaoh. Joseph had integrity in good times and bad. He wanted to do the right thing even if no one else could see him. Joseph trusted God and knew that God was with him

Do you have integrity like Joseph?

Learning Activities and Crafts:

\(How to choose the best learning activities for my teaching situation\)

Activities:

- Continue to learn the names of the twelve sons of Jacob.
- Write situations on cards. Let the children act out the situation showing personal integrity. The other children can guess what they are acting out and how they are showing integrity. Here are some examples:
 - Integrity is seeing rubbish/trash on the floor and picking it up and putting it in the bin without being asked.
 - Integrity is saying good things about someone when others are gossiping about them.
 - Integrity is choosing not to watch a movie that you are not allowed to watch even when you are at a friend's house and your parents would never know.
 - Integrity is telling the teacher that you were playing by her desk and broke her vase while she was out of the room.
 - Integrity is telling the truth even if it means you will get in trouble.
 - Integrity is finding money on the floor at the library and reporting it to the librarian rather than putting it into your pocket.
 - Integrity is replacing someone else's property that you broke.
 - Integrity is studying for the test and writing your own answers instead of copying someone else's work.
- Another way to do this is to show pictures of different places and let the children say ways they could show integrity in those places.
- Retell the story and let the children do the appropriate sound effects. They could make the sound of footsteps, Potiphar's wife blowing kisses, prison doors closing, sleeping, etc.
- Look up Egypt on a map.
- Use encyclopaedias, magazines, or books from the library and study things about life in ancient Egypt.

- Copy some Egyptian writing.
- Sing "Oh, Be Careful"
