Story Overview:

While Ahab and Jezebel were ruling the kingdom of Israel, King Jehoshaphat (4th king of Judah) was trying to be a good king over the country of Judah. He tried to teach his people how to follow God. Everyone was very afraid when a huge army was about to attack Judah. King Jehoshaphat called all of the people together to fast and pray. The Lord spoke through a prophet and told the people not to worry because this battle belonged to the Lord. Jehoshaphat sent the army into battle, but he put a group of men in front to praise the Lord in song. While the army of Judah was approaching the battlefield praising the Lord, the Lord set the enemy armies against each other. By the time Judah's army arrived at the battle, it was already over. The enemy armies had killed each other!

Background Study:

Jehoshaphat was Judah's fourth king after the kingdom split into two nations. He ruled for 25 years. He adopted strong military and political policies. His father had had constant trouble with the northern kingdom of Israel.

Jehoshaphat strengthened all the cities located along the border between Judah and Israel.

Background Information on the Divided Kingdom.

When Ahab was king of Israel, Jehoshaphat managed to gain peaceful relations with Israel. Jehoshaphat went to Samaria and made a treaty with King Ahab, stating that they would not attack and would help if an outside nation attacked either. This treaty was further sealed by the marriage of Jehoshaphat's son to Athaliah, the daughter of Ahab and Jezebel. This alliance would later cause major problems.

Besides military reforms, Jehoshaphat made many religious reforms. He accepted his responsibility as king to set a good example for his people. Jehoshaphat sent his princes, priests, and Levites throughout the country with copies of the Mosaic Law. These groups would teach the people how to worship the Lord properly.

Jehoshaphat had done everything he could to return his nation to the Lord. When the Moabites, Ammonites, and Edomites began their attacks on Judah, Jehoshaphat turned to the Lord for help. Moses had spared these three heathen nations from destruction when the Israelites entered the Promised Land several centuries before Jehoshaphat. This had been an order from God because these three nations were related to the Israelites. The Moabites and Ammonites were descendants of Lot (Abraham's nephew) by an incestuous relationship with his daughters (Genesis 32:3). Their chief city was near Mount Seir in Edom.

All three of these nations were located very close together, occupying the territory southeast and east of the Dead Sea. Now they banded together and marched around the southern end of the Dead Sea, coming up on the western side. Jehoshaphat had strengthened his cities in the north but not in the south, so Judah was very vulnerable to anyone attacking from this direction. The three nations had gotten as far as Hazazon Tamar (also known as En Gedi, a popular source of fresh water along the very salty Dead Sea). These attackers were getting extremely close to Jerusalem. Jehoshaphat prayed to the Lord, and God heard the prayer. God delivered Jehoshaphat's army without them even going into battle.

The sea referred to in verse 2 is the Dead Sea. Jehoshaphat was alarmed to know that such a vast army was coming against him and his people. And so he proclaimed the first fast by authority (verse 3). The Judean people came from all over the country and assembled in Jerusalem to seek help from the Lord.

At the temple, Jehoshaphat stood before the new court at the entrance into the court of the priests, and the congregations stood opposite him. In his role as the leader of God's people, he worded a prayer to the Lord God for them all that day. God's Spirit came upon a man named Jahaziel, who proclaimed God's answer to the prayer in the hearing of all the people (verses 15-17). What reassuring words he uttered: "Do not be afraid or discouraged ... the battle is not yours, but God's ... Stand firm and see the deliverance God will give you ... Go out to face them ... the Lord will be with you."

The next day, in obedience to God, the army was going out, and as they passed through the city gate, the king encouraged them. In fact, after consulting with the people, he appointed singers to march in front of the army, singing the words of thanks from Psalm 106:1 and 136:1.

After the battle was over, the people returned to Jerusalem and took the plunder to the temple. They gave the glory to the Lord.

Way to Introduce the Story:

Let each child say one thing that is good about God. Let the children keep thinking of things until they run out. Then lead a prayer and praise God for the good things He has done. If you are able, lead the children in some songs that praise God (Praise Him, Praise Him! I Sing Praises to Your Name. God Has Done Great Things. etc.) In today's story, we are going to learn about a time when an army was lead by people who were singing praises to God.

The Story:

Have you ever been afraid? Sometimes children are afraid, and sometimes adults are afraid. Today we will learn about a time when even a king was afraid.

At the same time that King Ahab and Queen Jezebel were being bad rulers in the country of Israel, King Jehoshaphat was trying to be a good ruler in the country of Judah.

The country of Judah had enemies. The enemies were some of the countries nearby who wanted to hurt them. Some of the enemies were called "Moabites". Some were "Ammonites", and others were "Meunites".

One time the enemies were coming closer and closer and the people of Judah became very frightened. Even King Jehoshaphat was afraid. Sometimes people run away or hide when they are afraid, but that is not what King Jehoshaphat did. The king decided to pray to God instead. He knew that God would help.

The king understood that this was a very important prayer. He told everyone that no one should eat during this special time of prayer. Deciding not to eat so that you can concentrate on prayer is called "fasting".

So the people fasted and prayed. Judah's people came together with the king to ask God for help. Fathers, mothers and children all gathered for this special prayer.

King Jehoshaphat began to pray to God. "Lord, You are the God of everything. You have power and strength. No one can stand against You. You gave us this land. When trouble comes, we come to You, and You hear us and You save us. Now these people have come and are trying to force us out of Your land. We have no power against their large army. We don't know what to do, so we look to You for help."

As the people all stood in front of the temple listening to their king pray, God spoke to them through one of the priests. He said, "Do not be afraid or discouraged ... for the battle is not yours, but God's. Tomorrow, go down and stand before those people. You do not have to fight. The Lord will save you. Do not be afraid."

When King Jehoshaphat heard God's words, he began to thank Him. He and all the people bowed down before God and worshipped Him for hearing their prayer.

The next day Jehoshaphat and his army went out into the desert and marched to meet their enemies.

Usually, when an army went into battle, strong soldiers with weapons would be at the front and lead the way. But King Jehoshaphat did something very different. Instead of soldiers, he put SINGERS at the front. The singers led the way by singing songs of praise to God. The army followed the singers. That showed everyone how much the king trusted God to take care of the soldiers.

When the army arrived at the place where the enemy had been, they received a big surprise. They did not find a strong army of soldiers to fight. Instead, they found that the battle was already over. The Lord had caused all of the enemy armies to fight each other.

By the time Jehoshaphat and his army arrived, all of the enemies were dead! The Lord had been right! The battle did belong to the Lord. The Lord had fought the battle for Jehoshaphat and his people.

King Jehoshaphat and all of the soldiers returned to Jerusalem praising the Lord. They went to the temple and worshipped Him. They wanted to thank the Lord for answering their prayer! It had seemed like it was impossible to beat such a strong enemy. But God can do anything.

Do you think King Jehoshaphat was happy that he had trusted God that day? God can help a king when he is afraid.

What about you? What are you afraid of? Let's pray about that right now so that God can help you.
